

STACY * CLARK

BIO:

A Buffalo native, Stacy Clark spent her youth at open mics, writing poems, teaching herself the guitar and supporting national touring acts. In 2004, she packed up her car and headed to L.A., because she couldn't imagine being anything but a musician. Since then, her determination has grown and her hard work has paid off. In 2011, Clark's song "White Lies" was selected by iTunes as the Single of the Week, propelling her to No. 7 on the charts (just past Lady Gaga). Her record Connect the Dots landed at #12 on Billboards 'Heatseeker' chart and was listed by Amazon as one of the "Best Records of 2011". Her song 'Touch & Go' was used in a national Canadian cell phone commercial for Sprint. She has toured relentlessly, including residencies at the Hard Rock Cafe in Hollywood, The Cosmo in Las Vegas and at Tab in Singapore. Clark appeared season five TLC's LA Ink getting her Connect the Dots album artwork on her back. She has opened for bands The Plain White T's, Kate Nash, A Fine Frenzy, The Bird and the Bee, Matt Nathanson, Jacks Mannequin, and Joshua Radin.

In 2012, Clark landed the "Best Singer/Songwriter" award at the Artists in Music Series in Los Angeles. She performed at NYC Living Room where her live recorded set was featured on Sirius/XM 'The Loft'. Other features include her music video 'Sign' airing on MTV and a guest appearance on Delux's 'Hey Lover' video airing in MTV Latin America.

2013 is shaping up to be a promising year. Clark's new record 'Days Into Nights' will be out in HarbourRecords/Caroline this summer. She will be performing a residency in August at The Observatory Constellation Room in Santa Ana, CA.

REVIEWS:

"Clark, below, is the genuine article, a deeply talented songwriter and record maker with a gorgeous voice. "Patterns" is beautifully produced, and is crammed full of deft, subtle harmonic and sonic touches. Smart, sexy, and sometimes, simply sublime." -The Buffalo News

"The third album by Buffalo, N.Y.-based tunesmith Stacy Clark is overflowing with all kinds of charm. It's refreshing to hear a songstress confidently come into her own style, where the sole accompaniment of an acoustic guitar really lets you home in on her lovely voice." - iTunes

944 Magazine hailed, "...she's a breath of fresh air... Her dedication and risk-taking has turned her into more than just a girl with a guitar. She is a girl with a heart, an idea and a talent of indescribable magnitude."

"You may have hummed along to one of Stacy's poppy songs, which have been featured on The Hills, One Tree Hill, Make it or Break It, The Rachel Zoe Project, and The Buried Life (to name just a few.) Stacy has partnered with depression/suicide outreach organization To Write Love On Her Arms for her first video for single "Hold On." We're honored to co-premiere the video along with TWLOHA." -Teen Vogue

Lansing Noise says, "Stacy Clark brings a certain aura: one of high-spirited energy and old-fashioned, creative enthusiasm for writing folk-based pop songs. In recent months, that quality seems to have paid off. First, Clark booked a gig playing for 15,000 in her hometown of Buffalo, NY. That show also entailed opening for '70s classic rock band America. Not bad for a girl who's touring the nation alone with her acoustic guitar."

"A quirky blend of folk-pop, electronica, and dance music...brings to mind such notable songstresses as Regina Spektor and Imogen Heap." -Gibson.com

Stacy Clark's official press materials describe her as having "an honest desire to succeed." Talk about an understatement. Clark's in-your-face ambition would be off-putting if she didn't appear to be so earnest about it. Between her clear vocal talent and amiable quality (her MySpace features pics of precious moments between her and her dogs), it's hard not to root for her." -OC Weekly
